1860 Volunteer Rifle Corps

A public meeting was held on Monday last, at the Boot Inn, for the purpose of establishing a corps for the parishes comprising the South Western portion of Wilts, of which Tisbury may be considered the centre, A Morrison Esq of Fonthill Park, in the chair. Amongst those present: V F Benett Esq, Pythouse; J du Boulay Esq, Donhead Hall; Captain Grove, Ferne House; R Graves Esq of Charlton; Revs R B Bourne of Donhead St Andrew, H Hall of Semley, F E Hutchinson of Tisbury; Messrs T Jukes, J H Bracher jun., Place Farm; S Bristol, Lower Lawn Farm; S Benjafield.

Resolutions were unanimously passed in favour of forming a corps. The list contained 36 names of effective members, willing to find their own uniform &c. Amongst the subscribers towards the fund were Mr Morrison 10/., and Mr V F Benett 5/. A general wish was expressed that as central a spot as practicable should be selected for target practice, whilst each parish would probably have down drill ground for the sub-sections. Owing to the short notice convening the meeting, only about 36 hours, it was suggested than an adjourned meeting be called at Tisbury on Friday the 27th inst. when a considerable addition to the number of effective and honorary members is anticipated. Sergeants Read and Brown, of the 1st or Salisbury Company, attended in uniform and gave valuable information as to the establishment of the company. A warm vote of thanks was given by the chairman on behalf of the meeting to those gentlemen for their patriotic assistance afforded to the meeting.

Presentation

The Rev G E Faulkner, Curate of Tisbury, being about to leave the neighbourhood, his parishioners resolved to offer him some substantial token of their affection and esteem. A subscription was speedily raised for the purpose and on Wednesday evening last, the Rev. gentleman having met the subscribers by invitation in the National school room, the presentation consisting of one of Keith's chaste and elegant Communion Services (suitably inscribed), and a handsome gold pencil case, both supplied by Bennett and Clench of Salisbury, took place. At half past five o'clock, a large number of the principal inhabitants attended.

Mr W Turner, churchwarden, was then voted to the chair, when, after some suitable introductory remarks, the chairman proceeded on behalf of the subscribers, to read the following address: "Rev. Sir, We, whose names are underwritten, beg your acceptance of a Communion Service, and gold pencil case, as a small offering of our affection and esteem. In leaving us, rest assured of our good wishes, not only for your welfare in this life, but also in that of the world to come". The presentation then took place, when the Rev. gentleman, who appeared deeply affected, replied in a speech replete with Christian feeling, thanking his parishioners for the high honour he consider they had conferred on him, and concluded by wishing them every earthly and eternal happiness. The Vicar, who was also present, spoke with much kindness and depth of feeling. The Rev. Mr Faulkner leaves for Suffolk, where, it is not too much to say, the good wishes of his parishioners, and of all in the neighbourhood who had formed his acquaintance, will follow him.

Sparrow Club

The second anniversary supper of this society, which confers so much benefit on the agriculturists of our little village, was held at the Boot Inn, on Monday, April 2nd, when an excellent supper was provided by our worthy host, Northover, in a style which called for the admiration of all present, and which, we are happy to say, was done ample justice to. After dinner the chairman, Mr J H Bracher, made a report, in which he stated that upwards of 200 dozen had fallen victims to this cause in the short space of three months. In only one case was the fine paid. The prize, a handsome powder flask, was awarded to Mr Barrows, of the New Farm, who killed the largest number, viz 34 dozen. After some appropriate addresses from the worthy chairman, Messrs Barrows, Alford, Coombes and others, the company proceeded to harmony, when, after some good songs by Messrs Hiscock, Rawlings and E Northover, the company departed highly delighted with their evening's entertainment.

1861 Concert

On Monday evening, the 22nd April, a concert was given in the National school-room under the superintendence of Mr G F Osmond, in aid of the Tisbury brass band, which has been formed entirely by the unceasing exertions of the above named gentleman. Each part of the concert was opened by the band. The march composed and arranged by Mr G F Osmond, was received with loud applause and re-demanded.

Messrs Stanley, Drage and Kenningham, of the Salisbury choir, sang several glees and songs in their well-known style. The beautiful glee, "Sleep Gentle Lady" (in which Mr Kenningham's fine bass voice told wonderfully), was received with enthusiasm, and encored. Mr Frank Goddard, of Tisbury, sang that much admired son "Pray for those at Sea" with his usual good taste and was well received by the company, the song being re-demanded. The concert was brought to a close with the national anthem, all present joining in the chorus; and we are happy to state that the concert was well attended, there being about 180 present, among whom we noticed many of the clergy and leading families of the neighbourhood.

Old and New Clubs

On Whit Tuesday the members of the Tisbury Old Club held their annual feast. A procession was formed in the morning and they walked to the High-street, where they were met by the New Club, which was formed last year and which promises very fairly to become an important society in the parish, when each party, headed by a brass band, proceeded to the church. The service over, they returned to their respective club-rooms, the old Club to the Crown Inn, and the New Club to the Prince of Wales Inn, where a good dinner awaited them. The weather was beautifully fine but the visitors were not so numerous as we have seen on some former occasions. We are happy to state the proceedings of the afternoon and evening were conducted in a most peaceable manner.

At the close of the conversation, the Lord's Supper was celebrated, the Rev E Erlebach, of Mere, presiding. In the afternoon a most impressive and appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev Mr Morrison of Blandford, and in the evening, the Rev T Mann of Trowbridge delivered an address on "Home Missions"; the Rev S Hind of Westbury on "A Church's Prosperity" and the Rev H J Chancellor of Salisbury on "Personal Religion". Hindon Petty Sessions.

Thomas Bevis alias Freemantle, a tramping stone mason, a native of Tisbury, was brought before Mr Locke on Friday charged with stealing a tin can, the property of John Hart, at Easterton, on Sunday the 5th inst. Prosecutor, when leaving work in the field on Saturday evening, placed the can together with some tools in a piece of standing wheat a short distance from where he had been working. On Sunday, prisoner was apprehended by Police Serjeant Pretty, at West Lavington, on suspicion of having stolen property in his possession and amongst other articles, was the tin can.

Prisoner said he picked it up and preferred being tried by a jury. He was therefore committed for trial at the Assizes.

A second charge was then preferred against him for stealing a large gig umbrella, the property of Mr Charles Sloper, at Devizes. The umbrella was left in a four wheel in prosecutor's gig house, and the door locked at 11 o'clock on Saturday night.

On Monday morning it was found that the lock had been broken and the umbrella and a mat were missing from the carriage. They were found upon the prisoner by the policeman Pretty. Prisoner said he picked them up on the road. Committed for trial at the Assizes.

Great credit is due to Mr House, of the Green Dragon Inn, Market Lavington, through whose timely information and assistance the prisoner was apprehended and the articles recovered. Not long since we had to record a similar act on the part of Mr House, in which case also thieves were apprehended and the missing property found.

1865 Daring Burglary

At an early hour on Saturday morning last, a daring burglary was committed at the dwelling house of a widow, Mrs Anna Maria Combes of Tisbury. The thieves, it appeared, resorted to the old plan of placing a treacle plaster on a pane of glass so as to deaden the sound in breaking. By this means they removed a pane near the fastening of a window and so effected an entrance to a sleeping apartment on the ground floor. Mrs Combes and her servant slept together in the room, and they awoke during the search of the burglars.

Little suspecting the presence of such unwelcome visitors, the servant jumped out of bed, and the first thing she caught hold of was a man's arm. Her terror may easily be imagined, but she nevertheless had courage to strike a light, when the women were alarmed at finding two ruffians in the room. Their apprehension was by no means allayed when the fellows demanded money, and threatened that if any noise were made they would cut the throats of both mistress and servant.

Having ransacked Mrs Combes' pocket, and found a purse containing about 12s or 13s, they decamped; but the light procured by the servant enabled both women to see distinctly the features and dress of the burglars. Their dress, too, was somewhat remarkable, one of them wearing an old military suit and the other a dirty brown smock frock of a peculiar description. As soon as the terrified women recovered themselves, they dressed and gave information to the police, when Mr Superintendent Dann and several constables started in pursuit of the burglars.

In a short time the fellows were traced through Barford Saint Martin and Grovely Wood to Stopford, and they were ultimately captured at the Bell Inn, Winterbourne Stoke, where they were coolly drinking a quart of ale.

The superintendent took the prisoners to Hindon on the same evening and on Wednesday they were brought before the magistrates there and committed for trial at the assizes.

Many good judges from all parts of the country were, however, of the opinion that Mr Allen's heifer ought to have been placed first. The Times says that the heifer was the favourite with the judges for some time, but ultimately the cup was given to the short horned cow.
